WEATHERED

Reminiscent of softly weathered wood, our Weathered collection of finishes looks as if it has been exposed to years of sun, wind and rain. Like an old drift fence, tumbled driftwood or seasoned barn planks, each of our Weathered finishes portrays wood that has been exposed to the elements.

Our special finishing process raises the grain to expose swirls and patterns with a uniquely textured surface. The wood is then lightly distressed by hand to replicate age and wear. After staining, glaze is applied to highlight the grain and then lightly buffed on edges and around knots to reveal the stain color below. Because each cut of wood is unique, every Weathered finish is a one-of-a-kind rendition that appears to have been aged and worn by time itself.

Grain swirls and knots are highlighted beautifully. Shown in Knotty Alder with Weathered Finish "A".

STYLING

Our Weathered finish collection includes an array of colors that evoke images of driftwood, dock planks or charred campfire wood. Choose from four different wood species, each with their own charm and character marks. Select from any of our wood door styles to create a look that's uniquely your own.

HERITAGE PAINT

Over time, a well-loved painted furniture piece will show distinctive signs of wear and use. Each chip and dent tells the story of its history through layers of paint. With its beautifully aged surface and chipped edges, our Heritage Paint collection is designed to resemble a cherished family heirloom.

Our finish artisans hand-detail the surface to create the look of time worn distressing. Finishes are layered to emulate the look of furniture that has been refinished over the years. A layer of stain is covered with a layer of paint with special effects to age the surface. The paint is then chipped away along corners and edges to create the signature look of Heritage Paint.

Chipped edges reveal the underlying stain color. Shown in Knotty Alder with Heritage Paint "F".

STYLING

Our Heritage Paint collection of finishes can be selected on Maple for a smooth surface, or Knotty Alder for a more rugged, rustic look. A beautiful palette of soft, muted colors is available on any of our raised or flat panel doors to create the perfect focal point for your home.
